SPE Aberdeen and Aberdeen Renewable Energy Group (AREG) proudly bring you the first Scottish Energy Futures Conference – focused on deploying the technologies necessary to make the energy transition happen.

The aim of this two-day conference is to share knowledge and advance the industry as we work towards the Energy Transition. We recognise that energy transition is a journey over many years. Today we need to decarbonise oil and gas production as it still supplies over 80% of global energy needs – but the pace of development of a wide range of technologies means that tomorrows energy systems will look very different. Recognising the urgency of the need to tackle climate change this conference will look at a range of decarbonisation projects that are happening now and will look to the future to see what technologies might finally deliver the goal of net zero.

Conference Highlights

- Keynote sessions featuring inspiring industry leaders
- High-quality technical content, case histories, innovative pitches and poster sessions
- Exhibition showcasing the latest technology
- Cost effective training opportunity counting towards CPD
- Numerous networking opportunities over the two days
